CREATION GRANTING PROGRAM

What is CREation?

The CREation Community Grants Program is a multi-level funding program that supports strengths-based, community-focused and youth-led projects taking place in communities across Canada. CREation aims to empower and support Indigenous youth to take ownership over the wellness of their peers. This program helps increase available resources for both incorporated organizations and grassroots collectives that seek to create impactful community change and enhance the wellness, resiliency, and engagement of Indigenous youth. CRE provides capacity-building for youth-led organizations in the form of innovative mentorship, educational resources, and workshops.

CREation was designed with two purposes:

1. to support Indigenous and reconciliation-focused grassroots groups and organizations; and
2. in response to Call to Action 66, to understand how governments, corporations, and foundations can better fund programming that supports Indigenous youth.

CREATION GRANTING PROGRAM

The CREation Granting Program reaffirms CRE's commitment to grassroots and community-level responses to service gaps and barriers by empowering Indigenous youth and communities to take ownership over their own wellness. It helps CRE to achieve its purpose by providing Indigenous youth leaders with the skills, resources and opportunities to cause positive change in their community, and supports the ongoing development and formalization of Indigenous-led community groups. Through creating networks of Youth leaders and projects, CREation allows CRE to support programming in more communities than we can reach ourselves, and reaffirms our commitment to empowering distinctions-based programming across the country.

As one of only a handful of national Indigenous funders, our focus is on decreasing barriers for community programs and projects, and uplifting emerging youth leaders. Our program answers significant funding gaps around qualified donee requirements, as we are uniquely situated to fund grassroots groups and initiatives. Because our team is comprised of staff with previous program delivery experience, we also are able to provide supports that enable youth leaders to navigate barriers in program implementation and to build the skills so that they are better able to navigate funding landscapes in the future.

2022/2023 ADVISORY CIRCLE

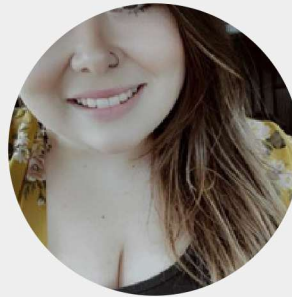

The CREation Granting Program is governed and led by an Advisory Circle of young Indigenous leaders. The Advisory Circle meets six times a year to provide guidance, strategic direction and priority setting for the CREation Program. Advisory Circle members also sit as a part of Review Circles, where they make funding recommendations. Advisory Circle members are from regions across the country, and have expertise in community programming, youth engagement, evaluation and community priorities. They function as a vital part of CREation, and help to make sure that funding decisions and our program model are grounded in community and by youth voices.

IMPACT INTRODUCTION

This year, CREation released $2,226,000 in funding to 96 projects. We received over 160 applications, representing a funding request of $4,522,835. While we received the steepest increase in applications from British Columbia and Alberta, we worked with the Advisory Circle to balance out funding needs across regions, and to prioritize mobilizing funding into communities we hadn't previously funded projects in.

2022/2023 Funding Requests and Grantees by Province

2022/2023 Grants by Community Type

This year, we focused heavily on doing outreach and engagement in on-reserve communities, which resulted in larger numbers of applications. Going forward, we will continue to prioritize applications from remote and on-reserve communities.

"CRE has empowered a group of young women with confidence and skills that will not only ensure our language will survive but has made our futures bright with possibilities. We are grateful for the belief and support in our self-determined path to revitalize our language. This grant has brought us closer to Elders in our community and to other community members who have seen us online. Community members recognize our logo and say they see our work and like it. When we wear our logo people ask us about our work! We feel more confident in our writing and media skills. We feel proud of our work and inspired for our futures."

CAPACITY BUILDING PROGRAMMING

Throughout the year, CREation runs workshops focused on increasing the skills and resources that youth have access to around program development, delivery, evaluation and organizational leadership. This past year, we ran 46 Capacity Building and Relationship Building Sessions with over 500 youth participants.

RELATIONSHIP BUILDING PROGRAMMING

Relationship Building Programming centers on providing youth opportunities to network, learn from each other and build connections. We ran Grantee Panels, where youth project leaders came together to talk about their projects and things they had learnt, as well as small workshops that focused on grantees sharing skills with each other. This past year, we ran 6 Relationship Building Sessions with over 350 youth participants.

ANNUAL GRANTEE GATHERING

In October 2023, the CREation team hosted it's second online Grantee Gathering. Grantees participated virtually in workshops and programming such as: Building Connections to the Land, Running Arts-based Programming, Grantee Panels and Networking Sessions.

MULTI-YEAR IMPACT

Over $5.2 million in funding has been mobilized to youth-led organizations and grassroots groups. CREation has given out 308 grants to 215 unique grantee groups (led by 885 youth leaders) to run community projects.

Projects have been run in all 13 Provinces/Territories and to date have reached over 97,000 Indigenous youth and community members directly, and over 99,000 indirect (digital engagement) youth participants.
